the strenuous campaign out on the Pacific coast this spring.

None of the matches to-day proved especially sparkling, although some of the eighty-eight entrants put up a pretty good fight and sent a number of sets along to deuce. There were a good many squash players on hand trying their hand at tennis. Eric S. Winston of the Harvard Club, the national squash champion, was beaten by S. Kelly at 7—5, 9—7, proving that he is not such a whirlwind on the turf as in the squash court. R. S. Stoddart. A. M. Kidder, E. H. Hooker and L. Dupont Irving were some of the other squash stars in the tourney. The summaries:

The Atlantic Yacht Club opened its racing week in Gravesend Bay yesterday with a race in which women were to be the skippers of the yachts. There were twenty-three starters, each with a woman at the helm, and this is said to be the largest regatta of its kind ever sailed. These yachts rafiged in size from the New York Yacht Club 30 footers down to the popular stars. There was only one mishap, Just after she had started on the second round of the course the Mistral of the handicap class, which was sailed by Mrs. 8. B.
